XRS-28142- Erroneous Validation Sleeper Berth Message Preventing Edits

We resolved an issue with the incorrect sleeper berth validation that was disallowing the driver from editing the logs. If the vehicle could not be identified when attempting to make edits during the driver log period, currently the application was applying a validation and returning an error assuming the vehicle did not have a sleeper berth. This has been corrected such that the application does not restrict the driver edits by returning a validation error where it does not correspond.
